

Vision Works Publishing

Media Release
March 2008

Contact Name: Lisa Coleman - Publicist
1.888.789.6757

My Choices Make Me Who I Am

By David and Mutiya Vision

Illustrations By Ignacio Alcantara

David and Mutiya Vision have collaborated on a series of children's books that reflect their own warmth, closeness and understanding of life, and children in particular. There is an uplifting feeling to the philosophy behind their books. I would recommend them to any family, but especially to a family with young children. George D. Goldman, Ph.D. Licensed Psychologist- Retired Supervisor of Psycho Therapy, Director of the Post Doctoral Psychotherapy- Center of Adelphi University

To think a thought—decide how, what or why that thought should be, and then give birth to the idea are all choices that can bring forth a good or bad outcome. Come travel with the young man in his journey through peer pressure, and other pitfalls that appear desirable but only promise disastrous results. “My Choices Make Me Who I Am” is written by David and Mutiya Vision, a husband/wife team. Being the parents of seven they understand the challenges children face at every turn of development. Their books aid children in understanding new concepts, and parents/educators in reinforcing positive values. This story imparts the value of responsibility and accountability. It shares the importance of making conscious choices that positively shape and define your destiny. The Vision’s are authors of nine published children’s books. (Vision Works Publishing; October 2008; ISBN: 0-9659538-2-3; $17.00 - Hardcover)

Enjoy the artistic expressions of Ignacio Alcantara as he colors with imagination and emotions, telling stories about life. His art is full of the ingredients that make the stories all the more real to the reader. Creativity, warmth, fun, adventure, and love are just a few components that shine through his works. This accomplished Dominican Republic based artist, graduated from Parsons school of design with a Bachelors Degree of Fine Arts. His work “Naqunik” is on display at the Museum of Modern Art in Santo Domingo. He has illustrated seven children’s books.

Vision Works Publishing is committed to empowering developing minds to soar. Our literary and musical works enable children to successfully engage the diverse world we live in, realize the awesome power we each have in manifesting our destiny, and understand the responsibility we share in sculpting a global community beneficial for all. It has grown into a fruitful resource of positive transformation for children, families and educators. (www.VisionWorksOnline.net)